

Pink Moonstones

Pachyphytum oviferum Purpus

- I get my name from my gorgeous, pink-gray leaves.
- I love full sun and well-draining soil, but can also tolerate partial sun. I cannot tolerate frost.
- My growing season is in the winter, and during this time I will grow stalks with red-orange flowers, and I'll require more regular watering. You'll be able to tell I need water because my leaves will appear a bit wilted and my soil will be completely dry.
